The Remaining Light premiered at the World Community Film Festival in Vancouver, and we're thrilled to see it travel around the province.

As most of you know, The Remaining Light was produced by the CCPA and the Hospital Employees' Union (HEU) and looks at the growing crisis in seniors' health care. Set against the backdrop of an aging population, the film explores what it means to age and die with dignity. Seniors, their families, and people who work day-to-day with seniors, tell their stories and share their hopes for more accessible and accountable services.
