

More opportunities to join a labour election canvass

October 1, 2015

The Canadian Labour Congress and local labour councils around the province are organizing more opportunities for union members to canvass for federal election candidates. This is a great way to get involved in the election. Join members from other unions for a few hours to talk with people in your community, and help elect the candidate labour is supporting in your area.

Interested members should contact the campaigns listed below for details.
