Unions table proposals

On Wednesday, March 15, the community health bargaining association tabled a comprehensive package of proposals in an effort to facilitate movement towards agreement on a fair collective agreement. Health employers are expected to provide significant responses today as discussions continue.

The comprehensive union package covers all monetary and non-monetary issues that are still outstanding, including proposals for:

- fair wage increase;
- job security;
- maintenance of all superior benefits

Earlier in the week, the BCGEU, along with UFCW Local 1518 and HEU launched a province-wide radio ad campaign to support union bargaining proposals for more efficient and expanded home support services to better care for British Columbians.
